Three Steps for Building a Great Relationship with Your Child Care Provider

Many parents agree that finding the right child care provider can be a nerve-wracking and lengthy process. Even when you've found the right provider, it can still be difficult to leave your child in someone else's care. But forming a good relationship with your child's teachers and child care team can help bring you peace of mind and even improve your child's learning experience.

"Children benefit from consistent, safe and nurturing environments, which is what we strive to provide at Primrose®. We also make every effort to partner with parents to extend and reinforce learning at home through daily updates, weekly classroom schedules, at-home resources and more," says Mike Hummer, Franchise Owner of Primrose School at Moorefield Station. "This ultimately helps us foster mutual respect and open communication between home and school."

At Primrose School at Moorefield Station, a high-quality early education and care provider, teachers work closely with parents to support children's development and learning. However, building trusted relationships still requires some effort from all involved. To build and maintain a great partnership with your family's child care provider or your child's teacher, consider the following:

Do your homework. To help find the right provider for your family, spend time researching different options and considering factors that are important to you, like school safety and early learning approach. Primrose has a comprehensive Safe School Plan and an exclusive approach, called Balanced Learning®, which offers a balance of purposeful play and nurturing guidance from teachers. Choosing a provider you feel good about and trust will bring you peace of mind, and a great parent-teacher relationship will likely form more naturally.

Make communication a priority. It's important to invest in your relationship with your child care provider as they help your child learn and grow. Talk regularly with your child's teacher to provide helpful information about your child, ask what you can do at home to support your child's development and share your appreciation for what's going well in the classroom. At Primrose, parents receive reports about their child's school day, photos from the classroom, resources to use at home and reminders about upcoming activities through an electronic communications system called 360Connect.

Address concerns immediately. If you have any questions or concerns about your child's care, discuss them with the teacher or school director as soon as possible. If there is a problem, it can't be solved unless someone knows about it, and providers would prefer to know if something upsets you before it becomes a bigger issue. By sharing your concerns when they arise, you can work together to find a solution.

>>Our Young Runners Continue to Compete

This past September, two of our own very talented young people participated in races for the 2019 Dulles Day on the Runway.

At 7 years old, Saanvi Kandi ran her first 10k, and she took 3rd place in the category of 12 and under, finishing with a stunning time of 1:33:19! Saanvi was quite proud to run and is looking forward to cracking more milestones in the future.

Saanvi wasn't the only LVII youngster to compete. Ram Kandi, the youngest of the Kandi family, is already challenging his older sister's prowess. He recently completed his first 5k race at just 5 years old. Ram finished the race with a final time of 41:25, running alongside his father.

Saanvi and Ram come from a family that is constantly engaged in fitness, and they love to take advantage of our beautiful trails and spaces in and around our wonderful community.

>>LVII Runners Hit Their Stride

This past fall, several runners from LVII participated in the Army TenMiler and Marine Corp Marathon.

Army TenMiler

Held last October, the Army TenMiler attracted more than 35,000 runners from around the world, including military personnel and wheelchair athletes. Representing LVII at the prestigious event, Bhanu, Venkatesh, Jagadish, Kiran, Sudhir, Ram, and Subbu all achieved a personal best. The mission of Army TenMiler is to support outreach, build morale, and promote physical fitness.

Marine Corps Marathon

In another nationally renowned race, runners from LVII braved heavy rainfall to complete their first marathon and put LVII on the map. Bhanu, Venkatesh, Pavan, Jagadish, Kiran, and Kranthi all ran in the Marine Corp Marathon, which covers 26.22 miles in Arlington, VA; National Harbor, MD; and Washington, DC.

The Marine Corp Marathon started in 1976 as a response to the dwindling popularity of military services after the Vietnam War. It has since expanded to include various events, such as the Run Amuck and the Turkey Trot. The MCM is now one of the nation's top 5 marathons, hosting runners from all 50 states and more than 60 countries.

>>The Viperfish Celebrate Another Successful Year

The Viperfish continues to reflect the success of our growing community. We had 106 young swimmers representing LVII this past season—the most ever! The swimmers were between the ages of 6 and 18. Some participate in year-round competitions; others come out just for the summer season.

We certainly appreciate all the community support. We hosted several events this year, including a few pancake breakfasts, to keep spirits high and build strong camaraderie within the team. We had 8 sponsors—more than ever before. Local support is important to the long-term success of the team since the Viperfish is a non-profit organization. Our sponsors help us buy new equipment and invest in outstanding coaches.

We finished the season winning all four of our competitions—the most ever. That is an impressive result, given that we are competing against teams of 200-plus swimmers.

New Coaching Program

Part of our success is due to the new coaching program we rolled out this past season. Our head coach has been a swimming coach for several years, and she has two assistant coaches. We also enlisted the help of several of our swimmers who were at least 16 years old as junior coaches. Their ability to take on leadership roles within the team is a real developmental opportunity for the coaches as well as a way to provide individual swimmers more personal attention and mentoring.

Our goal is to keep growing, of course, and investing in additional coaches. We want to focus on training and developing our swimmers. If you're interested in joining the team or learning more about us, visit www.lv viperfish.com.

>>First Day of School

The Business of Running the LVII HOA

Last October, we held one of the biggest and most successful Annual Meetings the LVII community has ever seen. It was standing-room-only in the Main Clubhouse's meeting room.

The Board's first official action was to confirm that the 2020 budget was currently in draft review. (The budget has since been posted to the website for all residents to review.)

The board shared that new astroturf will be installed over now-dead grass to serve as a new modular volleyball court.

>> Election Results: LVII's 2020 Board of Directors

The final results of the board elections were announced during our Annual Meeting. 17.9% of the residents voted, exceeding the 10% threshold required for a valid election. Two volunteer members assisted the representative from iVote, our third-party election management firm, in tallying the votes.

Kiran Jala and Stephen Hoffman received the most votes, meaning each of their terms will last for three years.

Mark Grimley and Nick Khawaja received the next most votes, so they will serve for two years each.

Jeffrey Winer withdrew his candidacy for a board seat a week before the elections.

Kiran will continue in his role as Vice President. Steve will remain the Treasurer, and Nick will continue as the Secretary. Mark is our first at-large board member. (See his story on page 14).

"When the new board was announced, it was quite clear," says Dale Nusbaum, LVII's on-site property manager, "from the audience's applause that they appreciate all that the board does for the homeowner's association."

Congratulations to the new board, and good luck in 2020!

Architectural Review Committee Report

Mark Grimley, chair of the Architectural Review Committee (ARC), gave his report on the 185 applications that were processed in the year. Each application received unanimous approval. The ARC, he said, also converted to a 100% paperless system.

Mark also reminded those in attendance that, while ARC applications for improvements must be signed by the homeowners of neighboring properties, these signatures only reflect that the homeowners have been notified of the proposed changes. Neighbors are not able to grant or deny approval of applications; only the ARC has this power. Therefore, refusing to sign a neighbor's application will only delay the process and the ARC's ability to process more applications. It will not affect the ARC's decision regarding the application.

Sheriff's Office Report

Officer Jennifer Smith of the Loudoun County Sheriff's Office shared which issues should be reported to the HOA, which should be reported via the non-emergency line, and which can be handled by the residents themselves. Our community's assigned officers, Gregory Thomas and Michael Rivera, were unable to attend due to other obligations. You can contact these officers at gregory.thomas@loudoun.gov and michael.rivera@loudoun.gov, should you have any questions.

Parking Issues Continue

Residents from the Ridges condominium development reported on parking violations that are hindering their ability to easily care for their nearby grandmother. Together, the board members, residents in attendance, and Design Standards/Covenants Advisor Dan Avendano developed a solution that will see a months-old problem solved very quickly.

Furthermore, the Board decided that they would develop stricter regulations to govern parking in areas that face persistent issues.

>> Mark Grimley, The Newest Member of the LVII Board

At the Annual Meeting, Mark Grimley was elected to sit on the LVII Board as our first at-large director. He joins board President Raj Kasaraneni, Vice President Kiran Jala, Treasurer Steve Hoffman, and Secretary Nick Khawaja, who are all returning for the 2020 term. Although Mark is our newest board member, he is far from a stranger to the residents of LVII. “When my wife and I first moved into LVII 13 years ago, we went to every board meeting. I’ve missed maybe 6 meetings over the years,” Mark recounts. “I definitely made my presence known.”

Previously, Mark served as the chair of the Architectural Review Committee for several years, a position he will hand over to Eddie Turizo now that he is serving on the board.

In his new role, Mark will function as the board’s liaison to the HOA’s standing committees. “I will not vote at these committees,” he explains. “I will just attend their meetings and listen to make sure that we’re all on the same path.” He will also be responsible for running the monthly meetings. “We’re going to be following the rules of order to a greater degree,” he says, “than we have done in the past.” But, he adds, “I am not coming in with a fixed agenda, nor am I trying to micromanage the association when we have a professional staff and management company.”

A Transplanted New Yorker (by way of Minnesota)

Mark Grimley was born and raised in New York City. After graduating from The City College with a BA degree in history, he headed to the University of Minnesota, where he spent 6 years working on his doctorate. His first post-college job was as an Assistant Registrar. During the next 5 years, Mark worked his way up to Acting Registrar. He came to the DC area in 1979 to serve as Director of Admissions and Director of

IT for the largest high school student exchange program in the world. After 14 years, he left that organization to become an independent consultant, which he has been doing ever since. One of his clients was a large, national nonprofit. He helped them identify, acquire, and implement software to run their backroom operations, which included fundraising, membership, and general ledgers. His work allowed the staff to focus on its mission.

Mark and his wife lived in Fairfax County for more than 20 years. As empty nesters, they were looking to downsize. So they bought a new carriage house in LVII. “We really liked the amenities and knew that the Metro would be coming out here, which would make it easier to take advantage of what’s downtown without having to drive,” Mark recalls. “That combination of factors made it the perfect place for us.”

Currently, Mark is semi-retired, which will afford him “all the time in the world” to dedicate to the HOA. Before he moved to the community, Mark didn’t have any experience with HOAs. However, he had served in a number of related roles. In New Jersey, he was the treasurer of a local political party. In Fairfax County, Mark served as one of the few non-medical members of the Healthcare Advisory Board as an appointee of the Board of Supervisors. In that position, he reviewed hospital budgets, EMT services, and special exceptions for land use and facilities. He was part of the team that granted approval for the construction of the Fair Oaks and Reston hospitals.

He is looking forward to working with the full board. “In the end,” he says, “this is a 15-year-old community that is still building. So, we have this dichotomy where we have portions of the community that are aging, and others that are brand new. We have to make sure the entire community remains attractive when compared with others in the area.”

If you are interested in contacting Mark, you can reach him at mark.grimley@lv2hoa.com.

>> Tips for Sailing through the HOA's Architectural Review Committee

If you are planning a remodeling project this spring, it's likely you will find that your plans are subject to review by the Architectural Review Committee (the "ARC"). The all-volunteer committee evaluates all submissions for conformity with LVII's Architectural Guidelines. These reviews play an important role in maintaining the character of the LVII community as well as protecting your property value—and that of your neighbors.

Last year, the ARC completed its transition to an all-electronic submission process, resulting in a far more efficient process. Deliberations are now shorter, and decisions can be made easily during review meetings.

Read and understand the design guidelines. The committee members love applications that are easy to approve. So, make sure you read through the entire guidelines online and address them directly in your application.

Ask for a concept review first. Many homeowners benefit from requesting a preliminary concept review. This is an informal and non-binding once-over by the committee, which can highlight issues of concern. This gives you a chance to negotiate a win/win solution before the project is committed to final drawings.

Pull necessary permits. If your project requires a county permit, please obtain that before beginning construction. Note that county approval does not preclude the need for an Architectural Review Committee review and vice versa.

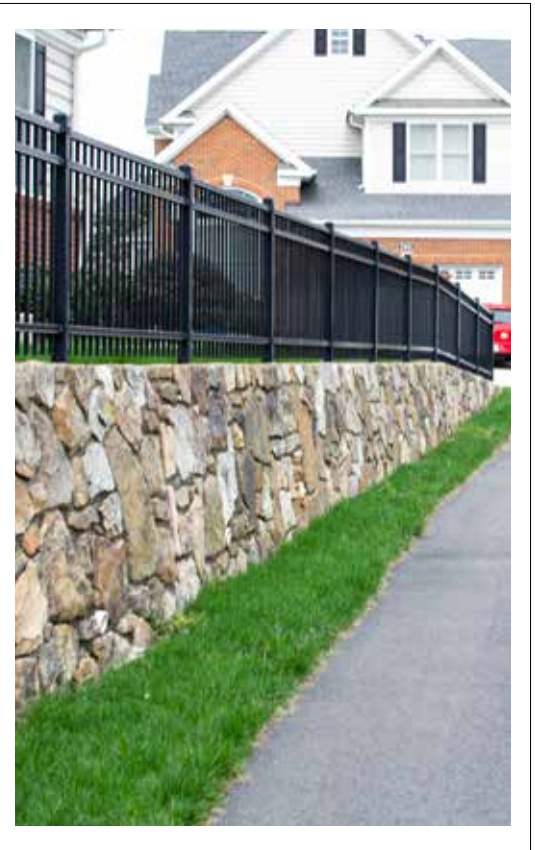

Present complete documents: Know what's required and complete the necessary form and checklist (both are online for your convenience). Prepare detailed drawings that don't leave unanswered questions. Bring material samples and paint colors. The clearer your submission, the fewer things the committee will have to question.

Be flexible. There are almost always several possible solutions. You might find that a small change to your design gets your application approved.

Be patient. You've been working on this project for a long time, but it's the first time the board has seen it. Give them time to study, ask questions, and consider the impact on the community. And since your project probably isn't the only one on the agenda, bring along a cup of coffee and a magazine. You may be there a while!

And finally, keep in mind that the ARC is the same one that keeps your next-door neighbor from painting his house purple! We are here to assist you through the process. So, if you have any questions, please feel free to drop by the office and speak with the ARC's staff liaison, Dan Avendano. Or, you can email arcchair@lv2hoa.com or designreview@lv2hoa.com if you have any questions.

ARC reviews are conducted the first Wednesday of every month.

Once Your Project is Approved

And here are a few tips for avoiding issues once your project is complete.

Be Timely

All approved modifications to your property should begin within six (6) months of the ARC's approval and be completed within 12 months of that approval date.

Ensure quality construction

The ARC's approval of your project is contingent upon all work being completed in a workmanlike manner. Don't be surprised if a board member drops by to make a routine inspection of the work in progress.

Report scope changes

You should resubmit any variation from the original approved plan to the ARC.

Retain your documents

You should keep a copy of your documents to make the process for future applications easier.

Celebrating Our HOA Management Team

>> Dale Nusbaum is now at the helm of the community's management team

If you have not yet met Dale Nusbaum, our new on-site property manager, allow us to introduce him. Dale was brought on last fall to run the day-to-day activities of our very busy LVII HOA office and the professional management team who support our many homeowners and families.

Dale works closely with the board to implement their vision for the community. He supervises the growing staff who handle our clubhouse rentals, home inspections, and events. He also oversees the contractors responsible for keeping the neighborhood safe and beautiful. That includes our landscaping, pond maintenance, trash removal, pool maintenance, and snow plowing. And, he is always available to our residents to answer questions, field suggestions, and address complaints.

With 46 years of experience in property management, Dale is a Certified Property Manager through the Institute of Real Estate Management (IREM) and the National Association of Realtors. He was president of the IREM Chicago Chapter in 1995.

Dale and his family relocated to the area from metro Chicago, primarily to be closer to his daughter's family, which includes seven grandchildren. The move was a huge transition for the Nusbaum family, given they had spent their entire lives in Illinois.

When he's not golfing, hiking, or sightseeing with his grandchildren, Dale loves to explore history, especially the Civil War. He's excited to live just minutes from the Gainesville battlefields.

"I truly love working with people and managing the properties in which they reside," Dale said. "It gives me great pleasure and satisfaction to help maintain a safe and comfortable environment for my neighbors to enjoy."

"Loudoun Valley II is one of the most beautiful neighborhoods that I have had the pleasure of working with. The homeowners are friendly, and it's quite clear that they take pride in their community. I look forward to meeting more of our residents in the future."

>>Meet Your LVII Management Team

Our management team here at LVII is a wonderful group of people. They have a lot of responsibility for keeping our community operating smoothly and our residents enjoying a wide range of amenities and activities. The next time you come by the Main Clubhouse, feel free to drop in and say Hi!

Bianca Jackson is one of our newest staff members. She responds to inquiries from homeowners and those doing business with LVII. She helps keep our clubhouses running smoothly and works with vendors to coordinate supplies.

Like all of us here at LVII, she ensures day-to-day communications flows among all parties. Bianca is new to Cardinal but has been working in administration and banking for several years.

bianca.jackson@lv2hoa.com

Cassandra Andoh, or “Cassie” for short, came from a Cardinal property in Alexandria, where she worked with residents in administration and as a concierge. After several years of service there, Cassie sought a position closer to home. She’s now quite excited to have a shorter commute and a more regular schedule as she assists our wonderful residents at LVII. You can find her most days at the LVII HOA office in the Main Clubhouse.

Dan Avenando has been with the team for two years now. He works with the Architectural Review Committee and is responsible for ensuring that all the homes are meeting the requirements set out in the community’s covenants.

When he is not conducting inspections, he is in the Main Clubhouse office.

Gloria Arevalo is another recent hire. She is always eager to help our homeowners and staff manage their affairs with efficiency and with big smiles. Gloria has been working in community management for more than half a decade. Before that, she served as a front desk concierge and administrative assistant for several years. Born and raised in Virginia, Gloria proudly served in the military for four years.

gloria.arevalo@lv2hoa.com

James Gustilo is a familiar face among the residents who attend the many activities and events hosted by LVII. He has taken on more responsibility and has proven adept at setting up events from Happy Hours to our Haunted House, and even to the end-of-summer dog swim. James is often in the Lifestyle Office at the Main Clubhouse—when he is not running around getting things done!

LVII Book Club

If you enjoy reading and discussing books with your neighbors, consider joining us. The community book club meets the second Wednesday of each month at 7:00 pm in the Main Clubhouse. For more information regarding the book club, please contact Nancy Carter at nancy.a.carter@gmail.com.

A Woman of No Importance: The Untold Story of the American Spy Who Helped Win World War II

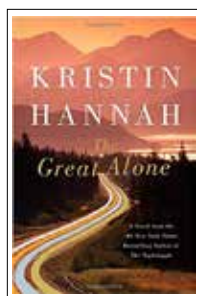

by Sonia Purnell

A New York Times Best Seller and NPR's Best Book of the Year

In 1942, the Gestapo sent out an urgent transmission: “She is the most dangerous of all Allied spies. We must find and destroy her.”

The target in their sights was Virginia Hall, a Baltimore socialite who talked her way into Special Operations Executive, the spy organization dubbed Winston Churchill’s “Ministry of Ungentlemanly Warfare.” She became the first Allied woman deployed behind enemy lines and—despite her prosthetic leg—helped to light the flame of the French Resistance, revolutionizing secret warfare as we know it.

Virginia established vast spy networks throughout France, called weapons and explosives down from the skies, and became a linchpin for the Resistance. Even as her face covered wanted posters and a bounty was placed on her head, Virginia refused order after order to evacuate. She finally escaped through a death-defying hike over the Pyrenees into Spain, her cover blown. But she plunged back in, adamant that she had more lives to save, and led a victorious guerilla campaign, liberating swathes of France from the Nazis after D-Day.

Delays for Phase 2 of Silver Line Extension

Due to the highly complex nature of joining the Silver Line to existing infrastructure in and around Dulles International Airport, the Metropolitan Washington Airports Authority has rejected the schedules put forward by bidding contractors, calling them “unrealistic.” Logistics issues with rock ballasts, cranes, and glass screen walls have all caused delays. Testing for the new Metro line should wrap up around August 2020. This likely means the current schedule for Loudoun’s new Silver Line stations will not be opening as currently scheduled for June. It is likely to happen now sometime between September and December— perhaps later.

The Capital Rail Constructors (CRC) collective submitted a report in September that, according to the Authority, included “misleading and incorrect logic, violations of the contract schedule specification, and unrealistic assumptions, and therefore it lacks forecasting credibility.” At this point, it’s not clear whether the CRC has adjusted their internal schedules.

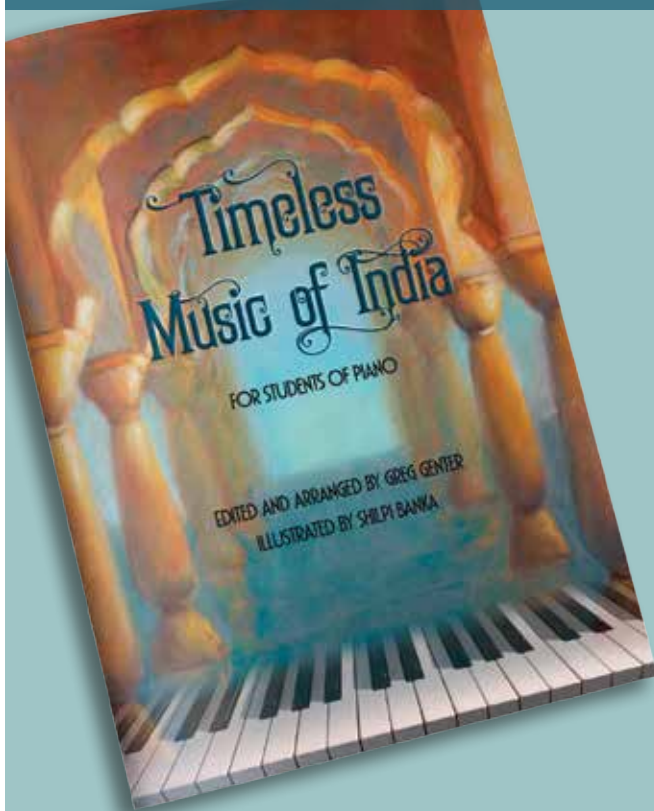

The tension between Metro and the Airport Authority has become “rather substantial and escalated at this point,” according to Loudoun County Supervisor, Ron A. Meyer

Jr. (R-Broad Run). “Metro’s perspective seems relatively hardened, that they won’t accept anything but totally redoing what has been wronged. We need to be thinking a little bit more pragmatically, obviously demanding that the contractor right the wrongs, but at the same time not taking an absolutist position that we’re not willing to negotiate at all.”

Loudoun County’s Director of the Department of Transportation and Capital Infrastructure, Joe Kroboth, said, “What we have been communicating to our elected officials is that the actual date for revenue start of the system is still, at this point, a soft date, depending on how quickly they resolve some of these issues. That would be anywhere from as early as Sept. 1, but through, say, December.”

HOA Team Comes to the Rescue

When the LVII team discovered Riley running loose in the neighborhood, they jumped into action. They managed to catch him and bring him into the HOA office until his owner could come collect him. Riley was wet and a bit cold, but he quickly warmed up to the friendly staff that keeps our office humming day to day. And his presence certainly brightened up our day!
